KEEN COMPETITION EXPECTED IN REGATTA

Brilliant Talent Will Fight for Positions in Various Events at Washington Canoe Club Races Today.

The Washington Canoe Club's first regatta of the year, to be held this afternoon on the course in front of the clubhouse, promises to bring out some keen competition in the various events.

This being the first regatta of the season, it is close to the members only, and practically all of the best paddlers in the club will be seen in action, together with a large number of new men, who will have to be reckoned with.

The programme will start with the novice single, at 2:15, and will continue until about dark. The event in which most interest is being shown is the hurry-scurry race, in which the contestants will run to the edge of the float, dive, swim to their canoes, climb in, and paddle about seventy-five yards to the finish.

The course where the races will be held being in front of the clubhouse affords spectators a good view from the Aqueduct Bridge.

The events and entries are as follows:

Novice single—Irving Zippel, A. S. Schmitt, B. L.
